

It is India's darkest hour.

Don't forget to have a drink at Leopold Cafe & BAR tonight.

Do let them know that even though your spirit is broken,
your middle finger is not.

Tell them you mean business this time.

You are not here to hold a freaking candle in the night.

Don't wear a stupid black ribbon on your sleeve some day next year, this time.

Don't observe a two-minute silence.

In fact, don't observe even a moment's silence.

SPEAK.
VERY LOUDLY.

BE ANGRY.
ASK UNCOMFORTABLE QUESTIONS.

IRRESPONSIBLE QUESTIONS.

Here 011-23012312 is the PMO's number.

And 011-23092011 is the home ministry's.

Don't keep your voice to yourself.

Blog it, mail it, SMS it.

Tell 20 like-minded-people to forward your mail to 20 other like-minded people.

Believe in the power of numbers compounded incrementally.

Vote for absolutely nobody.

Don't get tossed about from one greedy coalition to another.
Stand for elections yourself.

Anyone would be better than either of the Patils.

Or Mr. Deshmukh.

Or the opportunistic opposition.

DON'T SEEK CATHARSIS.

Don't just sit there watching the news

till the news channels themselves forget about it.

We are a country of one billion people.

If all of us actually did something this time,
there's no way they'd let this happen to us everytime.

Don't forget it.

NOT THIS TIME.
